Q: rails how to write a javascript drop down box I have a field that is a drop down box of countries, is there a simple way of submitting the selection back to the database? would appreciate it if anyone could give me a push in the right direction! Thanks

A: Try using a `Select` tag instead of a `Collection_select`. The `Select` element will give you the option to save the model to the database with a form submit. That will submit the selected country to the database with the model if you're using Rails 3's new RESTful way of doing things. `:country` is the singular model, `:country` is the collection of the model

Country.
