investigation into his campaign's possible ties to Russian interference in the 2016 election and the "Russian Witch Hunt Hoax." (Credit: CBS2) NEW YORK (CBSNewYork) — The FBI is investigating whether any Russian government officials or private individuals tried to sway the 2016 presidential election and whether anyone in Donald Trump's 2016 campaign conspired with them, according to a person briefed on the matter. Jared Kushner, the President's son-in-law, attended the meeting in Trump Tower last year with Sergey Gorkov, the CEO of a Russian state-backed bank. The person said investigators are looking into whether Gorkov communicated with other Russians about American politics and the presidential campaign. The White House declined to comment on the report. Russia's embassy in Washington did not immediately respond to a request for comment. Several U.S. intelligence agencies concluded that the Russian government was behind the hack of Democratic Party emails in an attempt to sway the election in Trump's favor. The agencies have not publicly attributed responsibility for the hack. Intelligence officials say their investigation concluded the activity was done for the purpose of influencing the election in favor of Trump, according to The Washington Post. The Post added that the head of the FBI, James Comey, became concerned about possible obstruction of justice when Trump asked him to drop the investigation into former national security adviser Michael Flynn, who had misled the FBI about a conversation he had with Russia's ambassador to the U.S.
